This course specification provides a summary of the main features of the course, identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the course, the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff, and the reference points used to inform the curriculum.

This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right course of study, to current students on the course and to staff teaching and administering the course.

Further detailed information on the individual modules within the course may be found in the relevant module descriptors and the Course Handbook provided to students on enrolment.

Please refer to the Course and Module Catalogue for further information on the course structure and modules.

Educational aims of the course

- Provide a learning environment and practice placement that enables the student to become a proficient, confident, safe and accountable mental health nurse equipped with the necessary knowledge, skills, capabilities and value-bases to achieve fitness for practice, purpose, academic award and professional standing.
- To develop students as reflective and person-centred practitioners, congruent with the values expected of the nursing profession demonstrated through placement learning.
- To develop a research informed understanding of the theory and practice of mental health nursing through theoretical and placement learning.
- To instil independent learning in students and to develop students' analytical, critical and problem-solving skills.
- To develop students' intellectual, critical and practical skills in the acquisition, analysis, interpretation, evaluation and presentation of scientific health information.
- To introduce students to the practice and evaluation of research, innovation and improvement.
- To provide a course that meets the Standards of Proficiency for registered nurses (NMC, 2018).
- To provide opportunities for students to develop appropriate study and transferable skills including time management, independent and group work, clinical expertise, experimental design, data collection, data management and analysis, numeric and IT skills, oral and written communication, information retrieval, literature review and report writing skills.

Changes to your course/modules

The University of Portsmouth has checked the information provided in this Course Specification and will endeavour to deliver this course in keeping with this Course Specification. However, changes to the course may sometimes be required arising from annual monitoring, student feedback, and the review and update of modules and courses.

Where this activity leads to significant changes to modules and courses there will be prior consultation with students and others, wherever possible, and the University of Portsmouth will take all reasonable steps to minimise disruption to students.

It is also possible that the University of Portsmouth may not be able to offer a module or course for reasons outside of its control, for example, due to the absence of a member of staff or low student registration numbers. Where this is the case, the University of Portsmouth will endeavour to inform applicants and students as soon as possible, and where appropriate, will facilitate the transfer of affected students to another suitable course.
